THE NANIWA AT HONOLULU

GREAT BOOMING OF GUNS WHEN JAPAN'S WARSHIP ARRIVED.

tal Commissioner Aktyama Says War Talk is All Nomense-Me Mas Come to Investi-gate, and if Hawaii Mas Done Wrong He Thinks she Will Pay Proper Damages. HONOLULU, May 5, via San Francisco, May 12. The long-expected Japanese cruiser Naniwa steamed slowly into the harbor this morning and was received with the usual honors accorded tes warship of her class.t Scarcely had she dropped anchor amid the booming of guns from the shore batteries and the American warships, then Lieut, Stoney of the Philadelphia, bearing missioner of Foreign Affairs at Tokio. The high dignitaries ashore were not slow in showing their good will toward the warlike visitor. Col. Fisher of the National Guard and Capt. Shafer of the regulars sent their compli-

the congratulations of Admiral Beardslee, called upon Capt. Kurooka and Mr. Akiyama, Special

ments early in the day.

From the moment the Naniwa appeared on the horizon and until she dropped anchor in harber there was considerable excitement in the streets. The docks were crowded with eager spectators, the majority of whom were Japanese. They made no demonstration whatever, but looked at the incoming warship almost with indifference The Japanese newspapers had predicted that the arrival of the Naniwa would excite the local colenists to arms and possibly to bloodshed, but this highly colored prophecy seems to have been evolved from the same source as the war reports in the same prints.

The Naniwa was received here with no more demonstration than any ordidary warship coming on a friendly visit receives. Your corre andent was received aboard with great courtesy by Capt. Kurooka and Commissioner Akiya-Both denied that the Japanese Government has the slightest unfriendly feeling toward wait or the United States. They declared that the war talk in the Japanese newspapers does not reflect the sentiments of the Government. The refusal of the Hawaiian Government to land the Shinshui Marus immigrants, they said, had caused much excitement among the common people of Japan, and, excited still further by inflammatory articles in the public press, they had imagined that war with the United States was imminent. The Government, however, fosters no such feeling toward either Hawaii or the United States.

My mission here," said Mr. Akiyama, "Is entirely of a friendly nature. Complaint has been made to the Japanese Government by certain immigrant companies that the Hawaiian Government has discriminated against Japanese immigrants, who have sought entrance to Hawaii under the laws of the country, unlawfully refusing to permit them to land and causing them less of money and peace of mind. They have demanded an investigation by the Japanese Government. The people of Tokio and Yokohama and the surrounding country have become very much wrought up over the matter. From advices we have had from our Minister here we are inclined to believe there has been a violation of the treaty. As a result the Japanese Government has sent me here to thoroughly investigate the charges made by the immigrant companies.

"If we find that the immigrants were illegally refused permission to land and that the treaty was violated, we feel sure that the Hawaiian Government will gladly pay a reasonable claim for damages. This talk of war is nonsense. The time when civilized nations have flown at each other's throate on account of small misunderstandings in business relations has passed. Nearly everything nowadays is left to arbitration, and this matter, like many others, can be easily settled without the use of gunpowder."

Capt. Kurooka expressed the same views. Capt. Kurooka is one of the most noted officers in the Japanese navy. Fifteen years ago, when he was a naval student in London, he was appointed by his Government to study the best warships of England and the best guns, with the object in view of suggesting some powerful cruisers for the Japanesenavy. His first effort was the Naniwa. She was built in 1885, and was the first protected cruiser in the Japanese navy. She saw service in the recent war between China and Japan, and was struck two or three times, but she received practically no damage and no one was killed on board.

The armament of the Naniwa is of the best kind. Her guns are Krupp's, fixed on Armstrong hydraulic carriages, and her six-inch guns are the most modern quich-firing weapons. During the war with China Capt. Kurooka was senior commander of the Japanese war vessels in

Commissioner Akiyama is anxious to begin his investigation as soon as possible. He will probably establish his headquarters ashore to-morrow and present his credentials. He brings with him C. Saito, President of the Tokio Immigra tion Company, and I. Segawa, the manager of Monoka Immigration Company, and five corre spondents of leading Tokio and Yokohama news

There has been considerable adverse comment because Collector-General James B. Castle is leaving this afternoon on the steamship Austra lis, to be absent from the island some time. Mr. Castle is supposed to know more about the reason why Japan's immigrants from the steamship Shanshu-Maru were not permitted to land than any one else. In fact, the matter was entirely at his discretion, as the courts decided in the habeas corpus cases heard by the Supreme Court. Why he should absent himself from Honolulu at this time no one seems to know.

IN CUNNINGHAM A HIGHWAYMAN? Police of Atlanta Confident That the Young Society Man Is Guilty.

ATLANTA, Ga., May 12.—The more the police of this city have worked on the case of Frederick Jackson Cunningham, the young society man who is under arrest charged with highway robbery, the more mysterious his case appears. The police adhere to their theory that Conningham was the leader of a gang of young men who made money by holding up pedestrians late at night, but they have not yet secured the evidence necessary to back up their theory.

evidence necessary to back up their theory. Cunningham was very seriously wounded in his encounter last night, and to-night is so low that fears are entertained for his recovery. He still maintains his innocence and asserts that in spite of the declaration of merchant stanford, and the finding of the tell-tale hat mark, he was the robbed and not the robber in the midnight encounter. The police have in custody another young man whom they allege to have been associated with Cunningham, but they refuse to give his name. ey refuse to give his name.

MURDER IN ROCHESTER.

The Son of Policeman Peart Found Dead with

ROCHESTER, May 12.—At daybreak this morning the body of a man about 25 years of age was found lying face downward in the grass in front of the Nazareth House of St. Andrew's Church, this city, It was removed to the morgue, and identified as that of William H. Peart, son of Officer Charles Peart of the Rochester police force. He had evidently been dead for several hours, as his body was cold and right when discovered. The autopsy revealed the fact that death was caused by a bullet wound. The bullet pierced the heart and was found lodged in the stomach. No clue to the murderer has been found.

Successor to Treasurer Howland.

New Bedford, Mass., May 12.-Andrew G. Pierce, Jr., Treasurer of the Pierce Manufacturing Company, will be the successor of the late William D. Howland as Treasurer of the Howland mills of New Bedford. A reorganization of the mills will be immediately considered. There will be no attempt to resuscitate the New Bedford company. Stockholders will lose everything, and they will be asked to surrender their stock and take new stock. The capital of the mills will then be increased to the original amounts of $1,000,000 and $750,000 respectively.

DIED OF PTOMAINE POISON.

forn Scholb Ate Ice Cream in Which the Pois May Have Formed.

Ice cream is blamed for the death of Dors Scheib of 68 Darcy street, Newark, which on curred on Tuesday night. She was the daugher of Philip Scheib, a dealer in leather findings at 119 Mulberry street, and was a very pretty and interesting girl of 20 years, who for several months had been employed in L Bamberger's department store. She was in the habit of going to her father's store at noon to partake of the luncheon which was sent there from home and shared by her father and two brothers.

On Friday the meal consisted of veal and green peas, and while they were eating it, Jacob Cohen, who keeps a shoc store in the basement of the same building, entered with a dish of ice cream, which he asked the Schelbs to accept. Cohen's wife sells ice cream to the newsboys and buys about five gallons a day from a manufacturer in Adams street. Dora Scheib ate two or three spoonfuls of the cream, her father sterather more and William Schieb, her brother, inlished the dish.

William Scheib was seized with cramps that afternoon, but they succumbed to home remedies. Dora Scheib felt no ill effects until Saturday morning, but by noon of that day, when she visited her father's store, she was so ill that her brother, John, persuaded her to go home, whither her father had preceded her because he felt ill. They both grew worse toward night and on Sunday morning Dr. S. E. Robertson was called in and diagnosed the case as ptomaine poisoning, which he said resulted frequently from decomposed milk or cream.

When Dora Scheib failed to respond to the usual treatment for such poisoning, he called Dr. Bleyle into consultation and he confirmed the diagnosis. Miss Scheib grew steadily worse, however, in spite of all their efforts, and she died on Tuesday night. Her father was in such a critical condition that his daughter's death was kept from him.

Dora Scheib was engaged to be married within three weeks to Frank Dietler, and her friends in the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Turnverein Vorwaerts were arranging for an ice cream festival in her honor, which was to be held to-night. They will attend her funeral at Woodlawn Cemetery to-morrow afternoon.

County Physician Washington said yesterday that the case would be investigated, and he thought that the poisoning might more easily have resulted from the veal than from the cream. The Cohens ate the cream, and Mra. Cohen sold from the same can to half a hundred newsboys, none of whom has been reported to have suffered any ill effects from it. It is possible, however, in the opinion of t

PREFERRED DEATH TO COURT.

Both Swore He Would Not Be Taken Alive, and

John H. Roth, 25 years old, who lived at 588 Central avenue, Williamsburg, swallowed two ounces of carbolic acid yesterday evening, and then went to an open lot at Halsey street and Hamburg avenue to die. A policeman found Roth and called an ambulance. When the sur geon arrived Roth was dead.

In the pockets of Roth's clothing two postal ards were found. One was addressed to Mrs. John H. Roth, Ward 12, Brooklyn Hospital. On it was written:

DEAR Rose: I will die before I go to court again.

Hope you will get well and see the little ones get big.

Your sister and court drove me to do as I did. Hope to see you in heaven if we shall go there. My love and a kiss to you and the children. Good-by. This is Wednesday at 5:50 P. M. From your husband.

DR. FARRAR'S EXPULSION.

The Physician Whose Disclosures Caused It Accused of Emprofessional Conduct.

ALBANY, May 12 .- Religious and social circles in Albany have been discussing the professional ethics of the disclosures made by Dr. George F. Moston, which led to the dismissal from the church of the Rev. Dr. H. C. Farrar, pastor of St. Luke's Church here, on charges of immorality with his servant pirl. These charges were admitted by Dr. Farrar at the recent Methodist Conference held in Schenectady, and he was expelled. Dr. Moston attended the girl, and his action in the case, which led to Dr. Farrar's expulsion, has been both criticised and approved. Many have declared that Dr. Moston's course

Many have declared that Dr. Moston's course was unprofessional.

This is denied by the Doctor, and he has asked the County Medical Society, of which he is a member, to cause an investigation of his action to be made. This request has been referred to the Board of Censors. Dr. Moston was a member and one of the officials of St. Luke's Church. His friends say that ample time was given the Rev. Dr. Farrar to resign quietly, but he flatly refused.

AN ANGEL WITHOUT WINGS

A FIGURE THAT CAUSED A ROW IN A

CHURCH IN SYRACUSE. t Tas the Central Figure in a Memorial Window and Was Approved by the Bishop, but so Shocked the Rector and the Building Committee That It Had to Be Removed. SYRACUSE, May 11 .- An angel with clipped rings, or, to be exact, without any wings at all, has been the cause of a pretty row, which may end in the disruption of St. Mark's Episcopal Church in this city. The angel was the central figure of a memorial window designed by Miss Mary Tillinghast of New York and presented to the church by ex-Mayor John E. McIntosh of Auburn in memory of his late wife, who was at one time a member of the choir of St. Mark's. There were three full-length figures of angels in the window, one sitting and one kneeling, and the third, a transfigured angel, standing on a foundation that to the Building Committee didn't seem any too secure, and singing to a lute. The third angel, being transfigured, according to the artist's concepion, was devold of wings.

The window was placed in the church and anproved by Bishop Huntington as scripturally and artistically correct. It remained there one Sunday and was admired by the congregation. But the Rev. W. Delancey Wilson, rector of St. Mark's, and the Building Committee of the church, consisting of George G. Cotton, a prominent politician, issue H. Broadhurst, a dignified churchman, and William Smith, a manufactory manager, who came from England several years ago and boasts a sublimate! knowledge of church proprieties, were greatly shocked at the variety displayed in so small a flock of angels. None but a full-fiedged angel came up to their ideas of celestia! ornithology, and they served notice upon the donor of the window that it could not be allowed to remain in their church. In vain the Bishop insisted that orthodoxy would not be outraged by the appearance of a transfigured angel without wings. They made the question one of theology, and on the ground that a figure floating in the air must be an angel, and that the Bible taught that angels had wings, determined to stand or fall.

The majority of the church members sided with the McIntosh family and the Hishop, who, as their spiritual shepherd, they were inclined to believe would not lead them far out of the way; but Rector Wilson and the Huilding Committee held their ground, and yesterday the window was taken out under the supervision of the artist, who was as indignant as Mrs. McIntosh.

Mr. McIntosh, who had intended by other generous gifts to further beautify the edifice, now declares that not one cent will he give to St. Mark's as long as there is any danger of a committee of carping critics passing judgment on matters regarding which they are densely ignorant.

ignorant.

The window that Mrs. McIntosh has taken back to New York was declared by Bishop Huntington and others familiar with church decoration to be the finest that had ever been set up in the Central New York diocese. Great indignation is expressed by members of St. Mark's that through the obstimety of the rector and Bulding Committee such a gem should be allowed to slip out of their hands.

NAVAL OFFICER BALDWIN DEAD. He Passes Away at His Newport Residence, of Cancer of the Stomach.

NEWPORT, R. I., May 12.-Christopher C. Baldwin, naval officer of the port of New York, and a close friend of ex-President Cleveland. died at his cottage, on Bellevue avenue, at 1:45 P. M. to-day of cancer of the stomach. He came here four weeks ago and gradually failed in strength, His children, Miss Louise Baldwin, J. D. R. Baldwin, and Columbus C. Baldwin, were with their father when he passed away His brother, William Baldwin, was also here, Mrs. Baldwin died many years ago. The funeral service will probably be held in Trinity Church, New York, on Friday.

service will probably be held in Trinity Church, New York, on Friday.

Mr. Baldwin was born in 1834 at Bunker Hill, his father's plantation, in Anne Arundel county, Md. His father had served with honor in the war of 1812 under Commander Warrington, and both of his grandfathers were commissioned officers in the Revolutionary war with Gen. Smallwood's brigade. Christopher had a bent for commercial life, and went to Baitimore, where he subsequently became a member of the dry goods firm of Woodward, Baldwin & Co., which at the outbreak of the rebellion was one of the largest firms south of the old Mason and Dixon line. He came to New York when war was declared, and founded the city firm of Woodward, Baldwin & Co., which was widely engaged in Southern trade. He became actively engaged in the development of the new South, and, retiring from the dry goods firm in 1881, he took the Presidency of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad, and devoted himself successfully to building up the transportation facilities of the regenerated Southern commerce. It was in this enterprise that he made the bulk of his fortune.

Mr. Baldwin was an enthusiastic Democrat, and took a conspicuous part in the Tilden-Hayes campaign and in the Presidential battles of 1880, 1884, and 1888. He contributed $10,000 to the national fund in the Hancock campaign. He was an anti-Tammany Democrat in local politics, and was at one time Chaliman of the County Committee of the old County Democracy when that organization controlled municipal affairs. In 1884, while Governor, Grover Cleveland appointed Mr. Baldwin an Aqueduct Commissioner, and in 1894, when President, he appointed him Naval Officer of the Port. In 1890 he had been mentioned as a possible candidate for the Mayoralty. He was a member of the Union, Manhattan, Metropolitan, Democratic, Knickerbocker, Southern, the South Side Sporting, and many other clubs. He was a widower.

The commission of Mr. Baldwin as Naval Officer of the Port would have expired on June 11, 1898. Pending the confirmation

TRANSPORTATION OF BICYCLES.

All of the Eastern Trunk Lines New Carry Them Free of Charge.

The statement in a morning paper that the Passenger Committee of the Trunk Line Associttion decided on Wednesday to accept bleycles as personal baggage between States is not cor-rect. The only decision by the committee in regard to the carriage of bicycles was its refusal of the request presented on Wednesday by one of the members whose line is in Canada for permiselon to charge for the transportation of bicycle from Canadian points to points within this State. This member of the Trunk Line Association charges for transportation of wheels to the Canadian frontier, but the Passenger Committee ruled that no charge could be made for transpor tation by its trunk line connections in thi State by which they were forwarded to destina

The Passenger Committee of the Trunk Line Association has at no time made any other decision as to the transportation of wheels, but has left the question for the individual action of the association. Since the passage of the law in New Jersey requiring bicycles to be carried free there has been no charge imposed for the service on lines in that State.

All of the trunk lines that have their own lines to Chicago carry wheels through to Chicago free of charge. Lines such as the New York Central, West Shore and Delaware, Lackawanna and Western check them only to Buffalo, where they can be rechecked to Chicago or intermediate points over the Western connections of these lines. The Eric road does not give checks for the wheels, but requires that tags shall be attached to them for identification. Eric officials say that they have found that the owners prefer this plan.

MONEY DISBURSED BY RAILROADS. An Interesting Calculation Made by Presiden

Thomas of the Erie. President Thomas of the Eric Railroad Company has written an article for the Washington Post, in which he presents facts and arguments to show that the railroad legislation of the country has been unwise and inimical to a vast industry. He says that if the railroads were fairly prosperous they would distribute annually over $1,200,000,000, and in 1894 they distributed within $40,000,000 of this amount, while the Government disbursements are only about $400,-000,000. The Eric railroad, with a gross income of about $30,000,000 per annum, distributes in wages to 30,000 employees over $16,000,000 annually and nearly $6,000,000 for materials. This is an average result from about 2,000 miles of the 180,000 miles of railroads in the United States. The total number of railroad employees in the United States is about 800,000, and the total average expenditure for wages over $725,000,000. At an average of five individuals to a family, there are over 4,000,000 people directly dependent on the railroads. In late years expenditures for repairs have been as much as $250,000,000 per annum, and even during these bad years the railroads are putting $70,000,000 per annum into their roadbeds, $33,000,000 into new rails and ties, and over $15,000,000 into 000,000. The Eric railroad, with a gross income per annum into their roadosis, $33,000,000 into new rails and ties, and over $15,000,000 into new bridges. Fences to keep off cattle and warning signs at crossings involve an annual expenditure of $3,500,000, or more than that of the legislative branch of the Government.

UNION PACIFIC REORGANIZATION. Meurs. Sage and Gould Have Not Brought

A despatch published yesterday announcing that a suit had been filed in the United States Court in Denver by Russell Sage and George Gould, asking for the discharge of the receiver of the Union Pacific system, and asking that the property of the Denver and Chevenne branch be turned over to them, gave rise in some quarters to the impression that Messrs, Gould and Sage intended to delay by this suit the reorganization of the Union Pacific Railway Company. The suit is an old one, instituted in December, 1894, n litigation bearing on the Cheyenne branch of he Union Pacific, and has no direct bearing on the Union Pacific, and has no direct bearing on the contemplated reorganization.

Oliver W. Mink, one of the receivers of the Union Pacific, said yesterday that no new suit had been filed for the foreclosure of the Denver and Cheyenne branch of the Union Pacific Rail-road as alleged. Messrs, Sage and Gould, as trustees, began proceedings, which were heard in November, 1894, for the foreclosure of the Denver Pacific, or Cheyenne branch, mortgage. The United States was not a party to the pro-ceedings, because it has no interest in, nor does it claim any lien upon the Denver Pacific line. The present receivers were made parties to the proceedings, because they were then in posses-sion of the property under the original or Ames suit, which was begun in October, 1893.

REFUNDING BONDS AT LOW RATES. The Illinois Central Prepared to Take Up Maturing Issues on Branch Roads.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company has concluded negotiations with Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and Vermilye & Co. covering $30,000,000 312 per cent, gold bonds secured upon the former Chesapeake, Ohio and Southwestern Railroad and upon the former St. Louis, Alton and Terre Haute Railroad, both now forming part of the Illinois Central Railroad system.

The company has also sold to the same house the $1,359,000 Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans first mortgage bonds, interest reduced to 3½ per cent. to be issued Nov. I in lieu of maturing divisional bonds, and has arranged with these firms to renew at 3½ per cent, the $2,000,000 Springfield division bonds maturing next language.

TAMMANY'S TOUGH JOB.

Fourth of July Speakers Hothering Sheehan New Sachems Installed. Twelve of the thirteen recently elected Sa-chems of the Tammany Society were installed last night. The absentee was Nathan Straus. After the ceremony of installation the Council of Sachems met and organized by choosing Thomas L. Feitner Grand Sachem, and reclecting Charles Welde Father of the Council and Maurice F. Holahan Scribe.

The Committee on Buildings, which determines the control of the Tammany political or ganization, which is the society's tenant at will of the Fourteenth street Wigwam, was chosen, of the Fourteenth street Wigwam, was chosen, and is composed of John C. Sheehan, William Sohmer, Hugh J. Grant, Grand Sachem Feitner, and Augustus W. Peters.

Sub-committees to arrange for the annual Fourth of July celebration were appointed. John C. No free-silver Representative or Senator was invited. A few days later free silver coinage was made a cardinal principle of Democracy and thereafter it was preached from the platform which barred it on Independence Day. The effort of the Committee on Speakers this year will be to select speakers who will confine themselves to spread-eagleism without touching on the doctrines enunciated by the Chicago convention as Democracy. No ultragold men are wanted, either, and every visiting statesman will be warned that Tammany does not want national issues discussed, as she is trying desperately to avoid meeting them in the campaign next fall. The constitution of the Tammany Society requires a Fourth of July celebration. Otherwise some of the Tammany leaders would be pleased to omit it this year. and is composed of John C. SALVATION ARMY HEADQUARTERS DECLARED A NUISANCE.

The Protests of Neighbors Avail at Last and Action is Taken Against the Commande as the Responsible Head of the Organiza tion-Peculiar Wording of the Indictmen

Commander Booth-Tucker of the Salvation Army was indicted by the Grand Jury yesterday for maintaining a public nuisance in the shape of an "ill-governed, disorderly house," otherwise known as the Army Headquarters, at 122 West Fourteenth street. The indictment was brought, in a sense, at the wish of Commander Booth-Tucker, whose counsel requested that the case be transferred from the Court of Special sessions to the Grand Jury and Court of General Sessions. A month ago Phineas Smith of 131 West Thirteenth street had Commander Booth Tucker arrested for maintaining a nuisance Mr. Smith charged that life in Thirteenth street

West Thirteenth street had Commander BoothTucker arrested for maintaining a nuisance.
Mr. Smith charged that life in Thirteenth street near the barracks had become unendurable on account of the racket made by the soldiers of the Army in their battles with the devil. Mr. Smith was backed up in his allegations by a number of residents in the street.
Commander Booth-Tucker was haled before Masistrate Wentworth in the Jefferson Market
Police Court. The Magistrite thought the case too serious for him to handle and he held the Commander in $300 bail for Special Sessions.
Then the Commander's counsel got an order from Justice Newburger transferring the case to the Court of General Sessions, so that the Commander night have the benefit of a trial by jury, and yesterday morning Assistant District Attorney Linday took Mr. Smith and Mrs.
Mary G. Hearn, who lives at 121 West Thirteenth street, before the Grand Jury and speedily secured the indictment asked for.
District Attorney Olcott sent notice to David Crear of 237 West 105th street, the Commander's bondsman, to produce him in Recorder
Goff's court to plead to the indictment. The indictment reads as follows:

"On the 30th day of April, in the year of our Lord 1897, and on all the other days since and up to the finding of this indictment, the said Prederick de Latour Booth-Tucker, late of the

Came from Vancouver-Coffin Marked "In Transit to England "-Sent to Morgue. The body of Arthur Scroggs, who was drowned at Vancouver Island on March 25, arrived at the Grand Central Station on Sunday from Montreal, marked "In transit to England." On the coffin was a permit for the removal of the body, issued by Ernest Prompton, Coroner, of Victoria, B. C. The body came East over the Canadian Pacific Railroad. No arrangements had been made for the transfer of the body to a steamer, nor was the name of the line on which it was to go given. The body was kept in the baggage room at the Grand Central until last evening, when it was sent to the Morgue. The police think that some one accompanied the body. Their idea is that the attendant became sick and has not been able to care for it.

ATLANTA COURT-MARTIALS ENDED.

Gen. Merritt Refuses to Entertain Romeyn's Charges Against O'Brien and Bamford. ATLANTA, Ga., May 12.-Lieut, O'Brien, the accuser of Capt. Romeyn, and Lieut. Bamford, a leading actor in the incidents leading up to the Romeyn court-martial, will not be arraigned on the charges preferred against them by Capt. Romeyn. Gen. Wesley Merritt, commanding officer of the Army of the East, has declined to entertain the charges. An order containing his decision in the matter is in the hands of Major

Charles Porter, commanding officer in charge at Fort McPherson. Gen. Merritt has decided that the charges were not presented for the good of the army service, but merely as a result of personal service, but merely as a result of personal enmity. The charges against O'Brien were conduct unbecoming an officer and drinking, which embraced a large number of specifications. The charges against Lieut. Hamford were that of conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman, in that he had spoken untruthfully and without proper respect regarding his engagement with Miss Nina Romeyn. Capt. Romeyn's daughter. In passing upon these charges Gen. Merritt said that they were not a fit subject for military inquiry, and it was felt that nothing but the physical condition of Capt. Romeyn could account for his ever preferring such charges for investigation by court-martial.

This practically ends the season of trouble as Fort McPherson. The social relations at the fort are very much strained as a consequence of the court-martial. This condition of affairs will make itself felt to morrow evening, when one of the regular post hops is to occur.
